

Privacy policy

Instituto dos Valores Mobiliários respects its users' privacy and gathers no personal data without your consent.

Instituto do Valores Mobiliários is in charge for processing all personal data provided and for ensuring that those personal data are processed in a secure and confidential way, as required by the legal regime in force.

User consent

The use of this website means that users have read and accepted this privacy policy.

Personal data privacy and confidentiality

Personal data given by data subjects when completing the forms at this website are only data required for user identification and are used exclusively for the described purposes. Under no circumstance are the data used for other purposes or shared with other entities.

All personal data will be archived and kept for the period necessary for the purposes for which they were collected.

Data subjects have the right to access their personal data and to request data rectification or deletion upon written request sent to ivm@fd.ul.pt with the subject "Personal Data" and the description of the respective reason.

Links

This website contains links to other websites whose privacy policies are unknown to Instituto dos Valores Mobiliários and for which we cannot be held liable. We therefore recommend users to check those privacy policies when they first access those websites.

Cookies policy

This website does not use cookies.

Amendments to privacy policy

This privacy policy may be amended at any time without prior notice, namely to fit the legal regime in force at that date. We strongly recommend the regular checking of the privacy policy for learning any changes.